Hillis in the future the same will not be a bona fide charge against them and will have been paid and discharged. I will not sue the said Samuel D. Hillis and his wife Allie M.Hillis or the estate of either of them on any note or account that has ever passed through my hands nor will I make any claim or charge against the estate of either of them based on any account, note or transaction that I have ever had for them.

That I have none in my possession or under my control, and the above are all that I have ever had any knowledge of.

All of which is true as I verily believe.
